

Extension Activity 1: Pick the Computer to Do the Job

A person may have more than one computer. They use each one to do a different job. Read about each computer and then answer the questions.

A desktop computer sits on a desk. It has parts such as speakers, tower, printer, or a mouse.

A laptop or tablet has the parts inside. They are small, light, and can move from place to place.

A cell phone can fit into a pocket. It can go anywhere.

Draw a line to match the job to the computer that can do the job the best.

Extension Activities are optional enrichment assignments.
